The Politics of Evidence

FEATURES

DIRECTOR’S INTRODUCTION
Knowing ourselves
By Colin Coates

EDITORIAL
Editorial: The politics of evidence
By Jody Berland

MISSING EVIDENCE AND THE RIGHT TO KNOW
Flying blind
By Margrit Eichler

What can a biologist learn about the science–policy–politics spectrum from working with social scientists?
By Dawn R. Bazely

Evidence and investigation: The truth behind missing and murdered Indigenous women in Canada
By Jennifer Dalton

Suffering and the fervour of statistical evidence in Vancouver’s Downtown Eastside
By Denielle Elliott

Reclaiming the people’s memory
By Karen Murray

MISSING EVIDENCE IN HEALTH AND ENVIRONMENTAL POLICY
Amplifying the gaps between climate science and forest policy: The Write2Know Project and participatory dissent
By Natasha Myers

The Cohen report and the black hole of indifference
By Callum C.J. Sutherland

Not knowing about the chemicals in our bodies
By Michelle Murphy

Obstruction of research, diminution of policy development, erosion of democracy
By Nick J. Mule

MISSING EVIDENCE AND HUMAN RIGHTS: A SHAMEFUL RECORD
Stefano Tijerina: “The image of Canada as a benevolent, diplomatic, humanitarian and pacifist nation is now at risk”
By Lina Beatriz Pinto García

Temporary Foreign Workers Program? No accurate data
By Patricia McDermott

Compelling evidence: The Truth and Reconciliation Commission versus the Harper Conservatives
By Jennifer Dalton

Bibliography for Further Reading

PRACTICAL AND AUTHORITATIVE ANALYSIS OF KEY NATIONAL ISSUES

DIRECTOR’S INTRODUCTION
Knowing ourselves
By Colin Coates

EDITORIAL
Editorial: The politics of evidence
By Jody Berland

MISSING EVIDENCE AND THE RIGHT TO KNOW
Flying blind
By Margrit Eichler

What can a biologist learn about the science–policy–politics spectrum from working with social scientists?
By Dawn R. Bazely

Evidence and investigation: The truth behind missing and murdered Indigenous women in Canada
By Jennifer Dalton

Suffering and the fervour of statistical evidence in Vancouver’s Downtown Eastside
By Denielle Elliott

Reclaiming the people’s memory
By Karen Murray

MISSING EVIDENCE IN HEALTH AND ENVIRONMENTAL POLICY
Amplifying the gaps between climate science and forest policy: The Write2Know Project and participatory dissent
By Natasha Myers

The Cohen report and the black hole of indifference
By Callum C.J. Sutherland

Not knowing about the chemicals in our bodies
By Michelle Murphy

Obstruction of research, diminution of policy development, erosion of democracy
By Nick J. Mule

MISSING EVIDENCE AND HUMAN RIGHTS: A SHAMEFUL RECORD
Stefano Tijerina: “The image of Canada as a benevolent, diplomatic, humanitarian and pacifist nation is now at risk”
By Lina Beatriz Pinto García

Temporary Foreign Workers Program? No accurate data
By Patricia McDermott

Compelling evidence: The Truth and Reconciliation Commission versus the Harper Conservatives
By Jennifer Dalton

Bibliography for Further Reading